Nanny Cams – The Legal Issues of Spying on Home Buyers. (2hrs CORE)

In 2018, more homeowners are installing some sort of video surveillance device in their homes for security purposes. With the increased security these devices bring, however, comes the possibility of liability when the seller records home buyers going through their home.

Taught by Stringham Director and attorney, Brian Swan, this class walks the student through the legal issues surrounding such recordings and helps the agent to better inform and advise clients on what to expect concerning possible home surveillance. This class will benefit the seller and real estate agents alike as they work through real estate marketing and transactions.

Be the first to learn all the issues that surround sellers using video cams.
